VA DOCTORS HERE UNCOVER EVIDENCE FOR VACCINE DEVELOPMENT TO TREAT CANCER

Research evidence that could lead to the development of a vaccine for treatment of some types of cancer has been uncovered by Veterans Administration hospital doctors at McKinney, Tex., VA announced today.

Dr. Russell H. Wilson, of the McKinney hospital, said work by him and his colleagues indicates the existence of a natural defense mechanism of the body against cancer, the same type of body reaction which makes vaccine against polio and other diseases possible. The work has been based on findings by James W. Finney, research microbiologist, which indicate that, under certain circumstances, products from cancer cells may cause the body to produce substances — perhaps antibodies — which may travel through the blood stream and attack the cancer cells.

Dr. Wilson said the researchers are pursuing these findings in the

BANKERS DISCOVER YOUNGSTERS MAKE GOOD CUSTOMERS

Serving school children can be profitable, as the Progressive Bank and Trust Company, at New Orleans, has learned in the last eight years.

The bank maintains what has been described as the fastest growing and most successful school savings plan in America's banking history. The bank, however, calls the plan simply a means to encourage thrift in youth.

More than 105,000 pupils participate in the plan. They seal their savings, usually nickels, dimes, or quarters, in envelopes and drop them in bank sacks kept in school classrooms. The bags are collected weekly by the bank, which later delivers a record of deposits to the youngsters.

Since 1950, when the savings plan was begun, deposits have climbed from a paltry sum to nearly $2,000,000, on which 3 per cent interest is paid regularly.

▶ WHEN a bandit demanded money from Miss Macola Fielder, a dry-cleaner at Detroit, she countered: "This is a joke on you, mister. I've just been held up, and the police are on their way here right now." The man turned and fled. Miss Fielder was lying.

▶ At a well-known night club, an ex-politician, baldish and puffy, was entertaining a cute young thing at dinner. Some tables away, another male diner, observing them remarked: "Look at Harry showing off for that blonde — putting sugar into his coffee instead of saccharine!"

▶ TAXES COULD be a lot worse. Suppose we had to pay tax on what we think we're worth.

Frisco First To Report In Red Cross Drive

County Fund Chairman, R. K. Hollas, notified the chapter last Wednesday that $475.00 was on deposit in the First State Bank in Frisco in the name of the Collin County Chapter, American Red Cross, as Frisco's portion of the 1958 Red Cross Fund goal.

As most towns in the county, Frisco's goal for 1958 was increased this year to meet the additional national and chapter budgets. These funds were raised in Frisco's first combined Community Drive last October.

Princeton second town to report, brought in a check for $435.00 as its portion of the 1958 fund campaign. This is an increase over regular quota in 1957. Princeton citizens gladly accepted the increased quota last September when it was planning for its Community Fund Drive and the quota was raised in its total community combined drive at that time.

Prosper, Texas, Home of County Vice Chairman in the 1958 Red Cross Drive, Chester G. Hays, sent in a check for $275.00 on the Red Cross Drive. Prosper is the third town to report in the 1958 Fund Drive.

Unemployment Here Much Less Than Last Year

Dennis Scott, manager of the local Employment Office, states that the unemployment situation in McKinney is not as serious as has been reported in other places. He also states that within a few weeks, when weather conditions make work on farms, and construction jobs available, the figure will drop considerably.

The past month there were 708 names on file in the McKinney Employment office, which is considerably less than the number out of work in February, 1957. In January this year, 596 persons were unemployed, as compared to 777 in 1957.

The figures for the years 1957 and 1956, showing unemployment each month, follows:

	1957	1956
January	777	590
February	829	744
March	857	849
April	652	853
May	511	774
June	499	665
July	413	676
August	434	687
September	508	604
October	586	555
November	571	578
December	524	510

1957 were $952,432.24 as compared to $1,100,128.24 in 1958.

Anthony Geer, executive vice president of the First National Bank at Anna, states "everything is up a little including deposits, resources and loans."

His figures on 1957 deposits were $1,069,846 as compared to $1,137,069 to date. Resources in '57 were $1,172,500 and in 1958 are $1,235,000. Loans this year amount to $663,000 while last year they were $626,500 in March. Geer states that right now the people at Anna are more concerned with plans for improving sewer and street facilities and $50,000 school improvement program.

The First State Bank at Celina shows $176,523 increase in deposits in March 1958, with $1,619,080.29 as compared to $1,442,556.55 on March 14, 1957. The general outlook in that area is an optimistic one according to President B. R. Smith, who thinks our overall economy will continue on an upturn if people believe that way.

The Collin County National in McKinney of which J. M. Whisenant is president showed total resources at present at $8,519,417.63 as compared to $7,593,039.62 in March, 1957.

Lions Club Sees Film On B-47 Jet Bomber

Several guests joined the Lions Club Wednesday noon to see an interesting film on the Air Force B-47 Jet Bomber, entitled "Give Me Second Station." The film was shown by Lion Elliott White, reserve officer in the Air Force who recently returned from two weeks training at Sheppard Field, Wichita, Falls.

Program for the day was under the direction of Lions Ira Anderson and Leon Allen, the former presenting the speaker.

White was a first lieutenant in the Air Force during the Korean War, and has since been in Officer Reserve, attending special training school each year. The school which he recently attended gave instruction on loading guided missiles for transportation by military aircraft. He briefly outlined some of the things included in the training program, and also listed planes in production today. He believes the B-47 jet bomber, to be the fastest and probably has the greatest striking power of any plane the Air Force today.

The ladies of the First Christian Church served the luncheon, which was held in the Fellowship Hall. Lion C. M. Cooper gave the invocation and the song leaders Lions H. G. Cooper and Garner Jones, conducted the opening songs.

In the absence of the president, the meeting was presided over by Lion Bob Clark. Resolutions on the death of the late Sam Smith were read by Lion Paul Worden. Clarence C. Denberder of Dallas, representing Lions International, announced a new club had been organized in Denton, which would receive its charter on March 28. He extended an invitation to local Lions to attend. He also announced an organization meeting of a Lions Club at Allen, set for Tuesday, March 11.

Guests for the day were introduced by Liontamer E. A. Rapples as follows: Dr. T. R. Leen, guest of Riley Boren; G. R. Merriman of Plano, guest of Herman White; Supt. R. E. Murray of Celina, guest of Supt. Pete Moseley; Lion Den Herder, guest of Pat Simpson; and John Bailey of Dallas, guest of Bob Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Carroll left Tuesday for a week's trip to Monterey, Mexico. They are vacationing with a group from Mary Hardin Baylor in Belton.

Edward Earl Myrick of Lubbock was a weekend visitor in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Myrick, here.

Mrs. Doyle Morrow and children, Diane and David, of Houston, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Grady Jackson here this week.

PECAN GRAFTING

The extension office always has a number of calls during the year on grafting and budding of pecans. If there is sufficient interest in this work to justify a trip to this area, Fred House of Tyler will do this grafting work.

Mr. House has worked in the county for several years doing work that was needed along these lines. He has always done a good job and has always been welcome again. Mr. House uses the grafting method only and he does not do budding work.

His prices for grafting work are as follows: 1 to 5 grafts, in town such as one or two trees per home, $7.50 per tree. Larger jobs from 50 grafts and up 75 cents per graft and over 500 grafts 60 cents per graft.

If you are interested in obtaining the services of Mr. House please contact the county agent's office giving your name, address, number and size of trees. If sufficient people are interested we will then contact Mr. House and obtain his services for this spring.

LIVESTOCK PRODUCERS ALERTED.

A livestock loss of 100 million dollars a year is now caused by leptospirosis — a disease which causes cattle and swine to lose their unborn calves or pigs.

With the early baby pig season in full swing, farmers should be especially cautious with regard to this disease, warns C. M. Patterson, extension veterinarian. In swine, when the infection strikes during mid-pregnancy, it usually causes loss of pigs, or the birth of weak one, he adds.

Hogs can also become hidden carriers of the disease, says the veterinarian. This poses a continuing threat, especially where hogs and cattle come in contact. Swine can be carriers of the disease for as long as a year, but a veterinarian can vaccinate against this condition. This method is widely used in many areas.

Leptospirosis may also be spread through drinking water that is contaminated by waste material from infected animals.

A good safety measure again the disease is to quarantine all newly-purchased hogs and have them blood-tested before allowing them to run with the herd. If the tests show that leptospirosis is present, the proper treatment and precautions can be used to prevent its spread to the original of the herd.

Remember, an ounce of prevention is often worth a pound of cure, concludes Patterson.

GOOD POTTING SOIL NEEDED FOR PLANTS.

House plants like other living things need moisture, air and food. Purpose of the soil is to hold the moisture and air and release the nutrients gradually as the plants grow.

Directions for mixing your own potting soil are given by A. F. DeWorth, head of Department of Floriculture and Landscape Architecture, Texas A&M College. Mix one-half coarse peat and one-half good garden soil.

The garden soil contains the plant food; peat facilitates drainage and lets air get to the roots, and increases the water holding capacity of the mixture.

This soil mixture should be suitable for most house plants such as geraniums, philodendron, ivies and begonias, says the specialist.

Plants such as succulents, cactus and sedums require a mixture with more sand to provide necessary drainage. One-third peat, one-third sharp sand and one-third garden soil makes a good mixture for these cactus type plants.

Prepared soils are available from local florist shops and garden suppliers for those who do not have the facilities for preparing potting soils at home.

Foliage Plants in the Home, written by A. F. DeWorth, lists recommended foliage plants for the home and gives directions for their care. Copies are available at our office in the courthouse.

NEWS FROM THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS — of — THE COLLIN CO. SOIL CONSERVATION DIST.

BLUEGILLS GROW BEST IN THE SPRING

"To grow bluegills big, raise your pond's fertility quickly, as soon as winter cold begins to wane," say biologists of the Soil Conservation Service. This is a most significant fact that fish culturists have learned by experience in recent years.

Pond fertilization was first begun in America about 1938. For a time technicians recommended delay in applying fertilizer "until the spring rains are over." Farmers waited until May or June. Hundreds were disappointed because the bluegills quit growing after the second year. Now it has been shown that even April fertilization is too late to obtain satisfactory bluegill growth.

Bluegills begin to spawn in May or June. Within two or three weeks after the eggs hatch, the thousands of little bluegills are eating all the spare food. When that happens their parents cannot get food enough to grow even with full water fertility, yet they continue to spawn all summer and until the first chilly nights in the fall — usually October. During this summer period the production of bass is high. They are growing rapidly on the thousands of little bluegills which are the chief bass food. When bluegills stop spawning in the fall, the bass continue their heavy consumption of bluegill fingerlings. As the bass reduce the number of fingerling bluegills, the adult bluegills begin to grow — slowly at first, then more rapidly. Growth is slow again during the colder days of winter, as fish feed very little in cold temperatures.

Then when the water begins to warm a little, bluegills are ready to grow larger; but only if the water is fertile enough to grow a lot of microscopic creatures, that are an essential part of the food cycle. A pond owner who waits until late spring to renew his pond's fertility cannot expect big bluegills. The season when they grow most rapidly is only 100 to 120 days, usually February to June.

"To get the first three to five applications in quickly, fertilize every week or 10 days as you begin the year's program of water culture," are the SCS instructions. "Fertilize until a white object cannot be seen 12 to 14 inches deep."

Another tip for good fishpond management — don't just fish bass. There is a lot of fun and good eating in the fat bluegills in a pond and it keeps the pond in good condition to fish for them. Many ponds that get over populated with bluegills have not been fertilized properly and have never had enough bluegills caught. Bass fishing alone in a pond is not good water management.

NTMWD Board Allocates $25,000 Fund

The directors of the North Texas Municipal Water District have allocated a $25,000 fund for the services of attorneys and engineers who will represent the district in a public hearing before the State Board of Water Engineers.

At the hearing in Austin, the NTMWD is expected to oppose strongly the Forney Reservoir project for which the City of Dallas is seeking a state permit.

Meeting in special session at Wylie, the water district board voted to employ:

—Roland Boyd of McKinney, attorney, at a fee not to exceed $8,000, to represent the NTMWD "in all matters affecting its water rights."

—J. L. Shepherd of Houston, special attorney, at a fee not to exceed $12,000, to assist Boyd "in doing whatever is considered necessary to protect the water rights."

—Freese & Nichols, Fort Worth consulting engineers, at a fee not to exceed $5,000, "for the purpose of making the necessary studies and assisting the attorneys in representing the district before the Board of Water Engineers in Austin."

In addition to the fees, the directors authorized reimbursement of the attorneys and engineers for "actual out-of-pocket expenses incurred in connection with such services."

Boyd has previously represented the district in other legal matters. Shepherd, who will be handling legal work for the NTMWD for the first time, is a member of the Houston law firm of Baker, Potts, Andrews & Shepherd.

The Freese & Nichols firm likewise will be handling its first project for the water district. A Dallas firm, Forrest & Cotton, previously has provided all engineering services for the NTMWD; Forrest & Cotton, however, is serving as the engineering adviser to the Dallas city government on the proposed Forney Reservoir project.

At the board's regular meeting February 4, Director H. R. Bisby of Garland offered a motion authorizing Board President J. O. Wallace of Rockwall to sign "a resolution protesting the City of Dallas' application for a permit on the East Fork below Lavan Dam."

The motion was seconded by Director A. R. Schell Jr. of Plano. The motion carried on a vote of the board members, but Director Chuck Cabaniss of Garland requested that the minutes of the meeting record that he was present but not voting.

Dallas has had the Forney Reservoir project under study for three years. The application to build the reservoir was filed in late January with the State Board of Water Engineers.

Located below Lavan Dam on the East Fork of the Trinity River, the reservoir would be used both as a major water supply and as a peaking pool for the Iron Bridge Reservoir now under construction on the Sabine River. A resolution passed by the Dallas city council declared that the Forney Reservoir would be "a necessary and essential part of the city's water supply system."

Preliminary studies prepared by Forrest & Cotton call for construction of a dam about one and one-half north of U.S. highway 80 near Forney. The reservoir would extend upstream from the damsite into parts of Dallas, Kaufman, Rockwall and Collin Counties. It would impound 490,000 acre-feet of water, including 466,000 in the conservation pool and 24,000 reserved for silting.

Safe yield from the reservoir would be about 72.5 million gallons of water daily.

Ultimate cost of Forney Reservoir would exceed $26 million, the studies indicated.

The Forrest & Cotton report recommended development of the reservoir in two phases. The initial development would provide a gross storage capacity of 57,000 acre-feet, enough for the development of the full yield from the Iron Bridge Reservoir. The first-phase cost would be about $15.4 million, the report said.

The public hearing on the Dallas application is expected to be scheduled by the State Board of Water Engineers in the near future.

Garland city councilmen have notified the state board that they would like to be represented in the public hearing.

In a conference held February 14 at the Garland city hall, Dallas Water Supt. Henry Graesser and Consulting Engineer James Cotton told Garland officials that:

1. Treated water from the Forney Reservoir would be available as an additional water supply for the City of Garland.

2. The reservoir would not affect Garland's present sewage disposal plant site or the area where a sewage district's plant might be built to serve Garland and neighboring cities.

3. The City of Dallas would finance the reservoir project "100 per cent," without the use of federal or state funds.

Sulphur Springs Dominate All-District 6-AAA

By NORMAN SCOTT
The Sulphur Springs Wildcats, conference champs, dominated the All-District 6-AAA basketball team announced this week by the district sports writers.

WILDCATS PLACE TWO.

Freddie Watson and Ocie Wright were the Wildcats selected on the first five. These two lads were instrumental in the Sulphur Springs final drive for the championship and also in their bi-district victory over the Garland Owls. The Wildcats were knocked out of a state playoff berth by the Waxahatchie Indians. Watson, the Wildcat play-maker, and a deadly outside shooter, turned in the best performance of his career when he connected for 38 points in the bi-district clash with the Owls. Wright was a consistent performer all year and was outstanding in the rebound department.

DON JENKINS HONORED.

Other first-teamers were Don Jenkins of McKinney, Ed Treadway of Greenville, and James Stansell of Mt. Pleasant. Jenkins, a 6-2 lad, was a consistent performer for the Lions most of the season, and both Treadway and

For Safe Boating Get Free "CG" Inspection

If you're an outboard skipper, now is the time to take advantage of the Coast Guard Auxiliary's "Courtesy Inspection" program. This is the third year the auxiliary has extended its program to include outboard craft — runabouts and cruisers, according to the Evansville Boating Foundation.

Here's what it means to you as a boat owner: a thorough inspection of your craft and the equipment you carry—done in your interest and without cost — by an expert examiner of the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

If your boat meets all the requirements of the auxiliary, you will be awarded the CGA decal, which can be carried on the windshield of your craft, if your boat or its equipment falls short of Coast Guard requirements, the inspector will make recommendations on how you can better equip your craft for safe boating.

Courtesy inspections are made only at the request of the boat owner; the Coast Guard Auxiliary will not report or attempt to enforce the law on an individual skipper. Instead, auxiliary members limit themselves to recommendations for safer boating. It is the CGA decal which attests to the fact that the skipper has met the requirements and recommendations of the Coast Guard.

Check with the Coast Guard Auxiliary unit nearest you for this free inspection.

CITY EMPLOYE 80 YEARS YOUNG

STEVE D. WYNN

Few men have the vitality and energy of a McKinney City Employee who is 80 years of age. He is Steve D. Wynn, 1315 Coleman Street, member of the street department force here for the past ten years. He has been a city employee for over 16 years.

Mr. Wynn was born in Union City, Tennessee, but came to Texas when he was eight years old. He was still a boy when the family moved to McKinney, residing just North of where the Safeway Store is now located.

He has lived in several sections of the county, and engaged in farming most of his life before moving back here to work for the city. His wife is the former Miss Florence Green. They are the parents of four children: Alvin Wynn of Dallas; Cebe Wynn of Anna; Mrs. Annie Mae Pinkerton and Mrs. Jettie Belle Hamilton, both of McKinney. They also have seven grandchildren and one great-grandson, the latter being a namesake of Mr. Wynn.

In reminiscing Mr. Wynn recalls when he attended the Old Petersburg School, now the J. L. Greer (North) Ward, and the old Wilmet School. He said he got "lickings" which he will never forget.

One was for sticking a pin in the girl who sat in front of him. He went to school barefooted, then "jabbed" the girl. He well remembers the hard whipping he got from the principal, Prof. Coleman. On one other occasion, he joined four boys in "playing hooky." They went to the creek bottom and were caught smoking when the principal came looking for them. The thrashing he received cured him from "playing hooky" and "smoking" for life.

Despite the fact that he has undergone two major operations in his lifetime, Mr. Wynn has always enjoyed good health. He attributes this to clean living, working out-of-doors and "trusting the Lord." He says "I have never been in jail, paid a fine, or been a witness in court." Mr. Wynn is an active member of the North Baptist Church and never misses a service, unless he or his wife are ill, which is very seldom.

The happy little fellow numbers his friends by his acquaintances, and as he performs his daily chores on the downtown streets, has a cheery word or wave for all with whom he comes in contact. He is the kind of man we like to refer to as "the salt of the earth."

CAR REGISTRATION SLOW AT COUNTY TAX OFFICE

Take a good look at the vacant car registration windows in the County Tax Assessor-Collector's office as they looked this week—only three weeks away from the deadline for getting 1958 license tags.

Deputy Odell Bilderback, in charge of registrations, reports only 3,000 passenger cars have been registered in Collin County to date. Yet there are 14,000 passenger cars in the county. This does not include trucks, tractors, and other vehicles which require license plates.

Unless car owners get busy, someone will get caught in the "last minute rush"—which means standing in line for hours. The 1958 tags must be on the car by April 1, "the law says."

This year car owners are required to bring along their title and 1957 registration slip, when purchasing new tags. This is a state law too. And besides that, the price of the new tags has increased ten percent of last year. This law went into effect in August 1957.

Mrs. Doyle Nelson, tax assessor-collector, Deputy Bilderback and other members of the tax office, are urging motorists to come by as soon as possible, or they may buy license plates at the sub-stations located at Celina, Frisco, Plano, Wylie and Josephine. Another substation will begin in Farmersville on February 15.

LETTERS FROM . . .
THE PEOPLE

BACK IN THE GOOD OLD HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS.

In those days people had plenty to eat, who lived on the farms. They raised hogs for their meat. They had more Jersey cows for their milk and butter, chickens on the yard for eggs and good fried chicken to eat.

Plenty of corn and hay in the barn for the feed of the cows and the hogs. When the weather would turn cold enough to butcher the fat hogs, the next day the lard was cooked out. The fat meat was trimmed to make the lard. Sausage was made and sacked. The rest of the meat was cut up, salted down, the back-bones and spareribs the first to be eaten. The meat was kept in the smoke-house.

Plenty of fruit of many kinds grew on the farms. Good gardens were made. The canning of these were put in in glass jars and kept in the winter in the stormhouse to keep them from freezing. The sweet potatoes were put in the hill. We would plant a patch of cane to make the syrup. With all this you can see that sugar, flour and coffee were about all we would have to buy. We would rob the trees. Take the honey out by dish pans full.

"O, them good old horse and buggy days" in 1900 to 1905 were the best days of all. Then the Ford cars came out. Put the horse and buggies aside. The people who were able to get a Ford car, would get one. Then about the first thing they would do, take out the end of the smoke-house, for the Ford car to be put in for a shed, they called it then. No need for the smoke house any more. Why, because we won't raise any more hogs. If we do we will sell them to finish paying for the Ford.

Then the wife would take the butter and eggs to town sell them to get gas for the Ford car. Then Tom would say to Mary, "we will drive over after supper to show John and Sallie the car." They go over to see them, honk the horn. John and Sallie and all the kids come running out to see the Ford car. "Well get out," John would say. "We want have time we just thought we would run by to see how you are getting along. In a short time Tom said well we will have to go. Good bye. Off they go back home.

The wife didn't have time to milk the cows and churn any more and they decided to sell the cows. No time to sit the hens, so they sell the chickens. No time to plant a garden and work it. No time to put the sweet potatoes slips out. No time to raise the hogs and fatten them for the meat. We just have to go to town to see the show. You see why, I love the good old horse and buggy days?

Those days are forever gone. In those days we could take one dollar and go to town be as much as for one dollar then, as five dollars at this time. We could buy ten pounds of coffee for one dollar. Get one hundred pounds of sugar for two-fifty. Cotton sold for five cents per pound. Corn sold for fifteen cents per bushel. Dry goods were cheap, and ten dollars would buy a pretty good supply for all the family.

In those days well there are lots of good things to be said about. People went to Sunday school and church more so then. Church doors are closed in lots of places. Churches are torn down, some are moved away. In this same church where people came to church and got saved, shout and praised God with a loud voice. It grieves my heart to hear of the churches torn down. No time to go to church. They take time to go to the honkietonk. The Bible said in the last days Peerless times would come. Surely they are not far off. It pays us all to do our best every day for the blessed Lord.

Dr. Stubblefield Guest Speaker To Auxiliary

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Collin Medical Society presented Dr. Robert L. Stubblefield as the speaker on Mental Health at the Community Room of the Collin County Bank Building on Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Stubblefield is chairman of the board of the Department of Psychiatry at the Southwestern Medical Foundation of Dallas, consultant to the Veterans' Administration Hospital, the army, the air corp, and the Public Health System of Dallas and Washington, D.C. He also serves as director to the two child Guidance Clinics in Dallas.

Dr. Stubblefield spoke on "The Concept of Prevention in Psychotherapy." He stated that before 1940 there was very little psychiatry taught in the medical schools. There are now 15 full time teachers on the various staffs.

Dr. Stubblefield noted that one-half of the hospital beds in the United States are occupied by mental patients, and that one out of ten people will spend some time in a mental hospital. Five to ten percent of children need psychiatric help.

Kropflin of Germany began to classify diseases as functional and organic. Many disease processes are influenced by what happens to the patient biologically. Some are more resistant to the stresses. Others may be false or incorrect learning of life situations or may be influenced by earlier life experiences. Psychiatrists see little or no mental illnesses now that are caused by bromides, syphilis, or pellagra.

Methods of preventing mental aberrations in children were stressed by Dr. Stubblefield. Among his most salient points were that a child needs 1-a mother or mother substitute, 2-love and care, 3-a father or father substitute. An adolescent often reaches out in his need to relate to the mother or father figure to a teacher or other leader whom he admires. Dr. Stubblefield endorsed nursery or play schools for the pre-school child both as a learning situation and as a relief for both the child and the mother. He said we need to be aware of the role and to utilize the opportunities that the schools might play in the prevention of mental illnesses in children. He suggests adding a fourth "R" (Rule—or discipline) to the "three R's." The parents and teachers should give love and support but should expect discipline or self-control. They should be consistent in their dealings with the child and not expect adult standards.

It is the role of the psychiatrist now to relate to other areas of social workers and education and bring new knowledge of how and why people act as they do. Dr. Stubblefield concluded by emphasizing that at this time psychiatrists are concentrating on service to patients, research, and teaching.

The auxiliary welcomed as guests Mrs. Stubblefield who accompanied her husband, members of the medical profession, the clergy, and representatives of the public schools and the P-T-A. Hostesses for the occasion were: Mrs. John Hardy, Mrs. Robert Hightower, Mrs. Robert Carabasi, and Mrs. Sol Freeman. Frosted cakes in Easter colors were served with coffee to the members and their guests. The next meeting will be on March 15th for the Doctor's Day Dinner at which the auxiliary members climax a day of community participation in honoring their husbands.

Church Women Hear Talk By National Leader

MRS. LACEY W. GOOSTREE

"The Ecumenical Movement is the greatest thing that is happening today in a world full of miracles of every kind," Mrs. Lacey W. Goostree told the large crowd of women who met in the Fellowship Room of the First Christian Church, Monday March 10, Mrs. Goostree, one of the nationally known leaders of the United Church Women, held her audience in rapt attention as she traced the history of the Christian movement from its beginning on the Day of Pentecost in the year 29 AD, showing how small groups began pulling away from the main body to form separate churches. The great Schism in the year 1054, she pointed out, divided all Christians into two main groups, The Roman Catholic and the Eastern Orthodox, but it was the Protestant Reformation in the Sixteenth Century that was the beginning of the Protestant churches of all faiths. She said that this division has continued through the years until we now have around 258 sects.

In stressing the need for a united front on all Christian areas of endeavor, Mrs. Goostree pointed out that in the world today 66% of the population is non-Christian, 18 per cent Roman Catholic, 8 per cent Orthodox, while only 8 per cent are of Protestant faiths. When we sub-divide this 8 per cent into its 258 different churches, it becomes apparent how much more effectual our efforts could be if we worked in one concerted effort, she said. The Christians of the whole world look to the United States for leadership, she told the women, and the responsibility falls on each individual.

In speaking of the United Church Women and their work, she said that the movement grew out of an initial meeting of six dedicated women and from this has grown an organization now spread round the world, an organization dedicated to the ideal of "one church, one faith."

McKinney Police Set High Standards In Public Service

Members of the McKinney Police Department, in their efforts to give our citizens a worth-while public service, have adopted the following Law Enforcement Code of Ethics, as their rule and guide. Chief Jack Pike states "we have dedicated ourselves to these high standards in our every day lives as citizens and police officers."

Police Department, McKinney, Texas. Law Enforcement Code of Ethics:

As a law enforcement officer, my fundamental duty is to serve mankind; to safeguard lives and property; to protect the innocent against deception, the weak against oppression or intimidation, and the peaceful against violence or disorder; and to respect the Constitutional rights of all men to liberty, equality and justice.

I will keep my private life unimpaired as a example to all; maintain courageous calm in the face of danger, scorn, or ridicule; develop self-restraint; and be constantly mindful of the welfare of others. Honest in thought and deed in both my personal and official life. I will be exemplary in obeying the laws of the land and the regulations of my department. What ever I see or hear of a confidential nature or that is confided to me in my official capacity will be kept ever secret unless revelation is necessary in the performance of my duty.

I will never act officiously or permit personal feelings, prejudices, animosities or friendships to influence my decisions. With no compromise for crime and with relentless prosecution of criminals, I will enforce the law courteously and appropriately without fear or favor, malice or ill will, never employing unnecessary force or violence and never accepting gratuities.

I recognize the badge of my office as a symbol of public faith, and I accept it as a public trust, and I will be as long as I am true to the ethics of the police service. I will constantly strive to achieve these objectives and ideals, dedicating myself before God to my chosen profession...law enforcement.

Miss Bess Kindle, Mrs. Grady Chandler Sr., Miss Arbye Boone and Mrs. Lou Bland, all employees of the McKinney Dry Goods Company, are confined to their homes with illness.

Jaycees Finish Annual Trash Can Project

The Jaycees recently completed their annual trash can project, having repaired all of the receptacles, painted new advertisements, and replaced them on the streets in the business district.

President Felix Smith of the Jaycees, and the project chairman express appreciation to all who assisted in this job. Special thanks are extended to Cain's Paint and Body Shop for repainting the cans free of charge.

Merchants who took advertising space on the cans, also have the thanks of the Jaycees. The trash can project has a two-fold purpose, in that profits from advertising is used in the charitable activities of the organization. The cans also perform a civic duty, by keeping the streets clean of trash and debris.

Sheriff Floyd Williams was in Dallas on business Monday.
